

The New School

By MIA

Today is the first day of school on a space shuttle. It is called Worldschool. My teacher's name is Lillian, and my school is in space. In my school, Lillian is a robot teacher that stays with you every year. Every student has their own robot teacher. My parents control the robot. They can listen and see me any time they want to. My parents choose my lessons. This year I am learning how to tell stories, cook eggs and pizza, take care of chickens, learn to read a clock, how to sew, and Math problems. I eat breakfast, lunch, and dinner with my parents. The children without parents eat with their robots. My robot is not my friend. My friends are real people. My friends' names are Alex, Liam, May, Paisly, Emily, Jack and Marne. We play at the park in the shuttle.
